USPA NEWS - On October 16, Airbnb released its Winter 2024 launch. As the platform celebrates 2 billion travelers who have now stayed with a host around the world, it unveils new features.

Hire the best hosts on Airbnb: Co-hosts are experienced hosts with an exceptional track record on Airbnb. Their average rating* is 4.86, compared to 4.62 for large short-term rental companies. In fact, 73% of co-hosts are Superhosts and 84% run a Traveler Favorite, which is a listing that is among the most popular with travelers on Airbnb.

Find the perfect co-host right in the app: With over 10,000 co-hosts in 10 countries, we help you find the right co-host for you. Our custom ranking algorithm recommends a list of co-hosts based on over 80 factors, including your location, hosting experience, and listing type. You can view their profiles and reviews, and contact them directly from the app.

Collaborate easily with your co-host: When you hire a co-host on Airbnb, everything you need to work together is built right into the app. You can message them directly, give them access to your calendar, share payouts, and more.

"With the Co-Host Network, we're making it easy to host," said Brian Chesky, Airbnb's co-founder and president. "Starting today, all you have to do is list a place, and we'll connect you with an amazing co-host."

For those who already host, love hosting, and want to grow their business on Airbnb, the Co-Host Network is a way to earn more money by helping hosts in your area.
